Abstract

The present research article is about the different letters / groups of different letters in the different words of English language beginning with the alphabets ‘R’, ‘S’, ‘T’, ‘V’, ‘W’, ‘X’, ‘Y’ and ‘Z’ having same pronunciation. At the outset, the importance of pronunciation in English language has been given in brief. The different letters / groups of different letters in the different words of English language beginning with the select alphabets, having same pronunciation, have been mentioned with their total numbers separately and their description with examples including words and phonetic transcriptions have been detailed. It has been concluded with the view that if one knows the particulars in the pronunciation of different letters / groups of different letters in the different words of English language having same pronunciation, he / she will find the mastery over the pronunciation of different words in English language. It ends with references.
